

A review of the antinociceptive use of medicinal plants in Iran

S. Nasri*

Abstract:

In recent decades, because of many side effects of synthetic drugs, the medicinal plants has been attentioned a source of new drugs. Given that the analgesic effects in traditional medicine to large number of plants are mentioned. More research has been done in this subject, which is due to reviewing them. In this lecture, antinociceptive effect and the possible compounds of herbs and also probable mechanisms for the analgesic effect of these plants has been studied.

Keywords: Antinociceptive, medicinal plants, pain tests, flavonoids.

* CORRESPONDING AUTHOR: S_NASRI1@PNU.AC.IR